—While William Shanley, with three companions was engaged in a game of chase and running in a circle along the sloping wall, he accidentally fell into the river and would probably have been drowned but for the prompt action of Walter Shaffer, aged 13, who helped the unfortunate boy from the water.

—The Dyberry road contractors still have 4500 feet to build and must hump to finish by Nov. 1, but the hardest part of the job is over. George Seaman, who is always optimistic, said Monday that his firm is ahead financially, though a bit behind its expectations in the amount of road laid up to Sept. 1, and that from this time on they look for smoother sailing.

—Thomas Murphy and Granville Bodie, the two Tanners Falls men who had smallpox, were released from quarantine Sunday and Monday the house was fumigated by Dr. H. B. Ely, county health officer, and N. B. Spencer. Murphy and Bodie both say they feel pretty well, and they are glad to be out again. Bodie was not very sick at any time. Murphy had smallpox very thoroughly.

—Mrs. Wynan W. Kimble, wife of the agreeable borough councilman, presented her husband with a bouncing baby boy, nine pounds to an ounce, Friday. Mr. Kimble is shaking hands right and left and distributing good cigars to all comers. He can now forget the catastrophe on the roof, when the councilman unintentionally knelt in some fresh tar and was scarcely in a frame of mind to say his prayers, though in a kneeling position.

—A man from over in "Pennsylvania" came to Hancock this week and filled up on gold for producer. While driving home through the mist he banked his horse into the road before he had fairly cleared a passing team. Catching a front wheel against the fellow of the rear wheel of the other vehicle he spilled every spoke of his wheel into the road. Returning to Hancock, he fogged up some more and started out to institute a suit for damages, whether against himself or the whiskey isn't clear. Some well-disposed persons put him to bed, where he stayed until the fog lifted.—Hancock Herald.

—Horticultural Inspector W. H. Bullock has sent State Zoologist H. A. Surface of Harrisburg another specimen, making three, of the apple maggot, which thus far has been found only in sweet apples. "If it is confined to sweet apples," writes Dr. Surface, "we can very easily treat it."

—Some excitement arose on West street Friday evening, when the West street Quoit club accepted the challenge of the Riverside club and the two organizations clashed. The boys from over the river took four out of seven games. The worst is yet to come, according to the West street club, and they are positive they can "put the hooks" into the Riversiders.

—The first coal train since March pulled into Honesdale this morning with 26 cars, three of which were left here. It is not known whether Honesdale is to have a resumption of coal trains and railroad men do not discuss the possibility, but it is thought possible that this division of the Erie and D. & H. may be gradually drawn upon to relieve the main line of both roads.

—Floyd Daniels and Miss Carrie Symmons got a marriage license from Prothonotary M. J. Hanlon Saturday afternoon just as the storm was hardest. They waited for the rain to let up a little and then went to the home of Justice W. H. Ham and were united. Mr. Daniels has been employed by the Diamond Cut Glass company. His bride is the daughter of John and Alvesta Symmons.

—Christy Mathewson, the famous pitcher whom Honesdale always means to call her own, has broken down from overwork and will, it is reported, go to a sanitarium to rest. It is stated, though not authentically, that Mathewson will be fixed up this month at Bill Muldoon's place, near New York, where Senator Elihu Root and other prominent men have been put in condition by John L. Sullivan's old trainer.

—George W. Sipple of the town of Fremont, N. Y., has purchased the upper end of Pine Flat, known as the John Kellam property, from the Ross brothers—George P. of Honesdale, William V. and Frank E. of Manchester. The property is in Manchester, opposite Hankins station. There are 200 acres in the lot; 200 is woodland. The cleared land with the buildings Mr. Sipple has sold to Louis Marold of Damascus. There is a quantity of basswood, poplar and cucumber wood which Mr. Sipple makes into match sticks. There is also a quantity of chestnut for railroad ties, ash, oak and some pine hemlock on the place. The best price offered for this property nine years ago was $900. Now it has brought more than twice that sum.

—Martin Heisel, whose mind is believed to be unbalanced, is in jail pending the determining of his sanity. Sheriff Braman and Detective Spencer got him Saturday and locked him up. Heisel, it is said, has for some time labored under the delusion that a prominent Wayne county manufacturer owes him $11,000.

—County School Supt. J. J. Koehler is cordially in favor of the agricultural course, not in High school but in the seventh and eighth grades, and has advocated it in his report. He wants to have practical farming taught in all the schools of Wayne county one day a week for the present, in place of civics and algebra. He hopes, also, to have more than one day a week devoted to this study after the first or experimental year, farming to take the place of algebra permanently. Mr. Koehler said Labor day that Wayne is essentially a farming county and that a great many boys and girls in this corner of the state never go to High school, so he believes the farming course should come in the seventh and eighth grades.

—The wife of a well known business man in town went to the railroad station Friday afternoon, just as the 2.40 Erie train pulled out, and was locked in the building by accident, the railroad employe who turned the key evidently not seeing her. She rattled all the doors and raised all the windows, and finally succeeded in attracting the attention of Martin Caulfield, who was crossing the station grounds and who came at once to the window from which the fair prisoner implored his assistance. Mr. Caulfield hunted up the man who had the key and the business man's wife was liberated without delay. She says she did not enjoy her imprisonment and that she hopes and prays the day will never come when she will be locked in a railroad station again.

Mr. Brown says the weather at New Jersey's Coney Island was ideal, that 100,000 or more people invariably go in bathing on a suitable Sunday, that the Boardwalk is in good condition and need not be regarded as a terror by people with tender feet, and that Atlantic City is the place for a man to visit if he wants a pleasurable and beneficial vacation at a fair cost.

Editor Wagner of the Hancock (N. Y.) Herald and Mrs. Wagner have returned to the familiar scenes across the Delaware, after a short vacation, part of which was passed in Wayne county. The editor of The Citizen was out somewhere, perigrinating about the borough for the news of his neighbors, when Mr. Wagner, with the assistance of August Bregstein, who met him in Hancock, was looking for him. He is full of regrets at his failure to meet the man from Hancock, and he assures him that the Herald is an exceptionally entertaining and sensible county paper.

SIGNS ALONG THE ROAD.

Legible Signboards at Crossroads Avert Mishaps.

There is nothing now-a-days that gladdens the heart of road tourists more than good plain signboards at the crossroads. Supervisors who make it their business to keep these valuable semaphores in good condition placed along important thoroughfares are entitled to the thanks of every traveler who has to pass through the country.

In some parts of the county every crossroad has one or more signs showing where each road leads, and how far the place may be, and the distance given correctly.

It is very perplexing to the traveler to get to the junction of two roads and find no friendly sign to direct him on his way, and the neglect to place such signs is an act of negligence on the part of the road officials.

—For all the local and county news read The Citizen, issued twice a week at $1.50. It's worth it.
